Appendix 1: Specification of the 3DM Client System

1. The “3DM Client system” contains the following elements:
 - A database with data concerning the Protein Family, “3DM database” (2) . The 3DM database will contain proteins that, using the 3DM tool and standard 3DM cut-offs, share a structural conserved core that consists of at least 100 structural conserved positions compared to the target protein sequence (accession codes of of target protein(s) to be included in Agreement).
 - An interactive system for analyzing data of the 3DM database, “front end scripts” (3);
 - Visualization tools, “3DM Viewer” (4).

2. Not included. The 3DM tool (1) and all its scripts, such as (not limitative) scripts that 1) collect data concerning the Protein Family, 2) superimpose the protein structures, 3) build the Protein Family alignment, 4) collect amino acid related data (such as mutational data from the literature), 5) generate the 3DM Client System, is not part of the 3DM Client System.

3DM contains two parts: The first is the “3DM tool” (1). The 3DM tool contains scripts such as mentioned in paragraph 2 of this appendix, and generates the 3DM Client System which contains the following four elements (2 t/m 4):

(2) The 3DM database: Contains Protein Family specific data.

(3) The front end scripts: these scripts take care off the communication between the database and the visualization of the data (4).

(4) 3DM viewer: These mostly HTML pages visualize the data inside the database.

(5) Represents user of the 3DM Client System.

3. The 3DM Client System is installed on the Supplier Server at the premises of BioProduct. Customer gets access to the 3DM Client System via an internet connection and personal (Business User) password/access code.

Appendix 2: Service Level Agreement (SLA)

3DM Client System SLA. During the term of the applicable Agreement, Bio-Product will give his best effort to enable that the 3DM Client System will be operational and available to Customer at least 95% of the time in any calendar month.

Definitions. The following definitions shall apply.

- "Downtime" means, for a domain, if there is more than a five percent user error rate. Downtime is measured based on server side error rate.
- "Downtime Period" means, for a domain, a period of five consecutive minutes of Downtime. Intermittent Downtime for a period of less than five minutes will not be counted towards any Downtime Periods.
- "Monthly Uptime Percentage" means total number of minutes in a calendar month minus the number of minutes of Downtime suffered from all Downtime Periods in a calendar month, divided by the total number of minutes in a calendar month.
- "Scheduled Downtime" There will be no more than 24 hours of Scheduled Downtime per calendar year. Scheduled Downtime is not considered Downtime for purposes of this SLA, and will not be counted towards any Downtime Periods.
- In case of failure to comply with the abovementioned availability, article 10 of the General Terms applies.

Appendix 3: Helix.ai

Definitions:

- (1) Helix.ai Dataset: The proprietary databases, based on the human genome. The dataset as developed by Bio-Product contains predicted effects of genetic variants, as well as, but not limited to, data describing mutations, positions and proteins, including variants and derivatives thereof.
- (2) Helix.ai System: The Helix.ai System provides access to the Helix.ai Dataset in several ways.
- (3) Helix.ai Access: Access to the Helix.ai Dataset is defined in the Quotation and may vary, depending on application and Customer. Examples are including, but not limited to, flat files, web applications and Application Programming Interfaces (APIs).

Proprietary Information:

Irrespective the way access to the Helix.ai Dataset is obtained, all data, selections or combinations thereof are proprietary and Confidential Information of Bio-Product.

Access:

Access to Helix.ai Dataset and Helix.ai System is provided as agreed in the Quotation and Agreement. Customers obtain a license for internal use and processing of the data to develop tools and applications in their internal business environment.

Product development and data processing using Helix.ai Dataset:

Results and Products (Customer Results) derived from the Helix.ai Dataset by Customer must be distinct in purpose from the Helix.ai Dataset. Products and tools (Customer Products) developed using the dataset, or derived by using the dataset, that are distinct and no longer contain (a selection of, or references to) such data, or links, may be used and exploited commercially by Customer. Such products and tools are the intellectual property of Customer.

No services to or for third parties

Except for internal generation of results and product development (above) Customer is not allowed to use the Helix.ai Dataset in whole, in parts or selections thereof, for use by or on behalf of third parties.

The license to Customer does not cover the use of the Helix.ai Dataset and Helix.ai System to offer services to third parties. The use of the Helix.ai Dataset and access to Helix.ai System for services like, but not limited to, diagnostic or predictive services is explicitly excluded.

For such applications a separate license is required, which can be discussed with Bio-Product.
